DAVID H. WEAVER
[illegible]
[illegible]

FOREWORD

This book was written for the purpose of preserving the names of our ancestors and provide a means for following up those lines of the Weber family not recorded herein.

It is dedicated to the memory of my parents, Michael M. Weber and Mary Weber, who have gone to join the ancestral families in better realm.

1812870

It is not a complete record, giving only a brief history of our ancestors, and a record of their names and families with a following up of the descendants of Michael H. and Catarena Weber to the sixth generation, and the descendants of Jacob S. Weber to the present time or ninth generation.

Other lines are indicated and some also recorded to the sixth generation, hoping it may be a means to induce others to publish a more complete record and to continue the lines that are completed in this record.

John T. Weber

November 1, 1934 Penryn, Pa.

The first Webers that came to America imigrated from Switzerland about the year 1717. They were four brothers, Henry, Jacob, George and John. Three of these brothers took up large tracts of land on the south side of Conestoga Creek and laid the foundation of the present Weaverland. The other one settled in the Pequea Valley.

They had adjoining tracts and together owned about 1200 acres, now divided into 45 farms. During the summer of 1718 Henry Weber, one of the settlers, built a home on the east bank of Blue Ball Run and in the spring of 1723 he moved to this home. The site of the original homestead and a part of the farm is now owned and occupied by Joseph M. Weaver, of the sixth generation, and a son of Henry B. Weaver. The original buildings have passed away.

An adjoining part of this original farm is now owned and occupied by Henry M. Weaver of the seventh generation, a grandson of Henry B. Weaver. On this farm the original buildings built by Heiner Weber in 1817 are still standing. This entire farm with its various allowances containing over 400 acres, being now divided into 8 farms and several smaller homes, is mostly owned and occupied by some lineal descendant of the sixth or seventh generation of Henry and Mandelin Kendig Weber.

For a more complete history of the farm of Henry Weber and his descendants and present owners as well as the farms of Jacob and George Weber and their descendants, we refer you to a book published by M. G. Weaver in 1933, "Early Weaverland History".

A short distance N. W. from the Weaverland Church is a cemetery which was originally a part of the Weber tract. Here rest the remains of the above brothers and their wives and many of their descendants. A monument has lately been erected on this spot in memory of them, and a tribute to their pioneer life.

----- o -----

Henry Weber, born in Switzerland in [illegible], died [illegible] 1748, was married to Mandelin Kendig who survived him a number of years. At the time of his death his youngest child was an infant. The mother, with a large family, managed the farm until their child Eva became 21 years of age. The following are the children of Henry and Mandelin Weber:

Christian Weber	married	Magdalina Butt

Elizabeth Weber	"	Wolfgang Newcomer
Mary Weber	"	John Wanner
Baverly Weber	"	George Mumma
Magdalena Weber	"	Frances Weber

After the death of the widow of Henry Weber, his farm consisting now of about 400 acres, was mutually divided between his two sons, Christian and Henry. Christian, the oldest of these sons, was born in 1732 and died in 1820. Christian and his wife Magdalena, had a family of 17 children, and according to old records, at the time of the death of Christian, seven of his sons and five of his daughters had 99 children. He also had 188 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, a total of 309 descendants.

The following are the names of his seven sons and five daughters who became scattered very much, and are the heads of very prominent families, in this and other counties. Only a brief mention of some of the lines of which they were the heads can be given here.
